

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

MEDIA CONTACT

Renee Lloyd

renee.lloyd@kentww.com

563-264-4778

KENT® Nutrition's ARGIS® Featured in IPPE New Product Showcase

Breakthrough probiotic highlights innovation in poultry and swine nutrition

MUSCATINE, Iowa (Jan. 23, 2026) — KENT® Nutrition, a leader in innovative animal nutrition solutions, announced that its breakthrough probiotic, ARGIS®, is featured in the New Product Showcase at the International Production & Processing Expo \(IPPE\) 2026. Show visitors can learn about ARGIS in the New Product Showcase located in the Discovery Zone at Booth BC36119 in the Georgia World Congress Center in Atlanta, GA.

The IPPE New Product Showcase recognizes outstanding exhibitors that have distinguished themselves by developing innovative technology in products, services or operating techniques that will advance the industry.

ARGIS is designed to unlock the full nutritional potential of soybean meal in poultry and swine diets. Among its key benefits, ARGIS can reduce the need for multiple individual exogenous enzymes, is heat tolerant and remains viable in lower pH environments. By specifically targeting non-starch polysaccharides (NSPs), ARGIS improves nutrient digestibility, enhances feed efficiency and promotes a healthier, more productive bird. This product is protected by patent US20220347234A1, ensuring KENT Nutrition's unique formulation continues to deliver proprietary, science-driven benefits to the poultry industry.

"ARGIS represents a major step forward in poultry nutrition," said Kale Causemaker, Senior Director, Innovative Solutions at KENT Nutrition. "Being featured in the IPPE New Product Showcase gives us an incredible opportunity to share how this patented product is helping producers improve feed efficiency and overall performance in poultry."

KENT Nutrition can be found at booth A1059, where visitors can learn more about ARGIS and its potential to improve poultry production through science-backed nutrition. For more information on ARGIS visit <https://kentnutritionadditives/our-products/argis>.

###

About KENT® Nutrition

KENT® Nutrition is home to trusted animal nutrition brands including Sentinel® horse feeds, Home Fresh® multispecies feeds, KENT® quality beef feeds, and Blue Seal® feeds—names that have represented premium nutrition for generations. With roots reaching back to 1927 for KENT Nutrition and 1868 for Blue Seal, the company carries forward a proud family-owned legacy built on integrity, innovation, and an unwavering commitment to agriculture. Part of the KENT WORLDWIDE™ family of companies, KENT Nutrition provides science driven nutrition for livestock, companion animals, and backyard species, helping producers, communities, and pet owners support the health and wellbeing of every animal, at every life stage.