Computer-aided design capabilities and flexible manufacturing process enables Douglas Machines Corp. to modify cabinet size, jet and spray configurations, door widths and types, wash and rinse tank volume, electrical components, racking systems and power supplies.

According to Sales Manager Kevin Quinn, “This allows us to design and build a washing and sanitizing system that is ideally suited to particular customer needs. A dedicated wash test and research area helps customers assess their container cleaning effectiveness and throughput rates using different models.”

Every Douglas washer is backed by one of the strongest warranties and service programs in the industry. Training and commissioning are provided with each unit to insure proper maintenance and years of dependable, trouble free operation. Top to bottom, from initial discussion to customer service to final build and delivery, Douglas Machines Corp. exceeds expectations with exceptional value and quality. It's a commitment to customers that has been kept for 40 years. Put the Douglas knowledge and expertise to work by visiting Booth B4000.
