BATTLEBORO, N.C., November 29, 2017 – Ossid, a product brand of ProMach, showcases at the International Production & Processing Expo (IPPE), January 30 - February 1 in Atlanta, its next generation 500E leak resistant overwrapper for case-ready poultry packaging. In addition to demonstrating this enhanced tray overwrapper, Ossid will be featuring solutions for every style of fresh packaging, including flexible, stretch film, end seal, tray lid, and vacuum skin pack. (Ossid IPPE Booth #B5421)

“Ossid is the leader in tray packaging equipment for case ready products,” said Jason Angel, Vice President of Sales for Ossid. “We’ve been a trusted partner since 1985 and are committed to providing a superior line of machinery. Ossid’s 500E is the most cost-effective way to package poultry and the next generation enhancements we will unveil at IPPE will further demonstrate that our team designed it with our partners in mind.”

The next generation 500E reduces cost of ownership through fewer wear parts and an improved IP wash down rating. Preventive maintenance alerts and real-time production data are also available. For increased flexibility, the next generation 500E is qualified with multiple types of film and trays, including MAP capabilities (optional upgrade) and sensor upgrades for compatibility with rolled-edge plastic trays.
