IPPE would like to thank you for being part of the animal food, meat and poultry community. The landscape of the world has changed so much, and we are proud that our industry provides an essential service of feeding the world. Nutrition is the backbone of good health, and our industry delivers the highest quality food to both humans and animals every day.

IPPE is the only annual exposition of its kind showcasing the most current technology, equipment, supplies and services used in the global production and processing of eggs, meat and poultry, and those involved in animal food manufacturing...no other trade show offers the same scope of products and services. IPPE’s extensive range of solutions draws industry professionals committed to implementing best practices, updating operations and remaining competitive. Held every year in Atlanta, IPPE is planning for another successful show in January 2021. Together, we can and will look forward to the opportunity to once again bring everyone together to foster the next era of innovation, education and relationship building at the 2021 IPPE.

The health and safety of everyone who attends the International Production & Processing Expo (IPPE) is our top priority, as we continue to plan for a successful show in January 2021. We are following guidelines from the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), the World Health Organization (WHO), and state and local governments regarding the coronavirus (COVID-19) and will provide regular updates to all stakeholders as the situation warrants.

On behalf of the three partner organizations that produce IPPE - the American Feed Industry Association (AFIA), North American Meat Institute (NAMI) and U.S. Poultry & Egg Association (USPOULTRY) - we would like to thank our industries, our members and their team members for their hard work feeding the world when so much is unknown right now.

As we plan for the 2021 IPPE, we are focusing on ways we can be as much of a resource to you as possible. We remain ready and able to support your needs. If you have any questions, concerns or suggestions on ways we can be of service to you and our industry, please let us know by emailing info@ippexpo.org or calling:
