Double L Group Launches the Revolutionary Direct X Exhaust Fan for Poultry Operations

Double L Group, a leading innovator in agricultural ventilation solutions, proudly announces the launch of its groundbreaking Direct X Exhaust Fan Line. The direct drive line is designed specifically for poultry facilities. This cutting-edge product redefines ventilation standards, offering unparalleled efficiency, reliability, and ease of maintenance.

The Direct X Exhaust Fans have a direct drive design and are engineered to provide poultry producers with a robust, low-maintenance, and energy-efficient ventilation solution. By integrating an advanced Electro Commutated (EC) motor, a direct-drive mounting system, and durable butterfly doors, the Direct X Fan is set to reduce operational costs and boost overall productivity in poultry houses.

Key Features:

- Advanced Electro Commutated (EC) Motor: The Direct X Fan is equipped with a high-performance EC motor, delivering superior energy efficiency and built in soft start. This ensures optimal ventilation while significantly lowering energy costs.
- Maintenance-Free Direct Drive System: The direct drive eliminates the need for belts, reducing maintenance needs and enhancing durability, resulting in lower operational downtime.
- Durable Butterfly Doors: These robust doors provide a tight seal, minimizing air leakage and ensuring better air volume control, which improves overall ventilation efficiency.
- Enhanced Corrosion Resistance: Constructed with a fiberglass-reinforced shell, the Direct X Fan is designed to withstand the harsh conditions of poultry houses, providing long-lasting performance.

"The Direct X Exhaust Fan Line is a testament to our dedication to delivering innovative and reliable solutions to the poultry industry," said Garrett Bradford, Poultry Sales Manager at Double L Group. "Our goal with the Direct X Exhaust Fan is to set a new standard in poultry ventilation, combining cutting-edge technology with unmatched durability."
